Dear Sirs:

Cox Cable of San Diego shows C-Span # daily until 3:30 P.M., P.S.T. Then it shows Public Access Television which consists mainly of local religious programs such as Bible Studies and sermons. This happens right in the middle of Senate Debates. I feel we should be able to see the senate in session until it's conclusion.

This is the same as if a national network ended televising an N.F.L. football game at halftime in order to televise local church services.

I do not feel that Cox Cable has the right to treat C-Span viewers this way. Please try to correct this situation.
